THE CLIENT

Our client is an international auto manufacturer, best known for making reliable, fuel efficient cars and motorcycles. In fact, they are the fourth largest manufacturer of automobiles in the United States, and the sixth largest in the world.

BUSINESS REQUIREMENT

An industry leader, our client was searching for new ways of reaching consumers and improving the effectiveness of its email promotions which were sent to:

- New Customers: Purchased vehicle in the past 12 months but no service visit.
- Lapsed Customers: No vehicle service in 12 – 24 months.
- Inactive Customers: No vehicle service in 24+ months.

MINACS SOLUTION

Building on the success of the current marketing campaigns we manage for the client, Minacs designed a remarketing program that would complement our partner's current email marketing and direct mail initiatives. Remarketing is one of the new digital marketing services offered by Aditya Birla Minacs.

How remarketing works: Remarketing typically works when a small piece of code is placed onto a Web page. That code generates a cookie in the Web browser of anyone who visits that page. When the visitor leaves the site and continues to surf the internet, websites that recognize that cookie will display an ad for the previously visited Web page, ensuring that business remains top-of-mind with their potential customers.

However, Minacs Marketing Solutions (Minacs) utilizes new technology to take this process even further, allowing the code to be placed into an email. When the customer opens the email, a cookie is generated in their browser. As the email recipients browse the Web, they are reminded of the promotion or special offer from the email. We find this method to be particularly effective at reminding customers to take action with regards to a specific program.

Case Study

MAJOR RESULTS

Using our unique remarketing technology, Minacs was able to show display ads to all customers who opened an email from our client's chosen campaign. In this case, our new remarketing feature was tested in four major urban centers across America. By adding remarketing to its existing email promotions, our client was able to increase its ROI and incremental revenue across all of the cities tested.

- New customers who were part of our remarketing campaign brought in 8% more revenue, and an ROI of over 8% compared to new customers who did not receive remarketing emails.
- Lapsed customers spent an average of 19% more per order after receiving our remarketing emails, resulting in a 14% increase in revenue and ROI.
- Inactive customers had the greatest increase in revenue (70%) when they received our remarketing emails, spending 80% more per response than inactive customers who were not part of the remarketing test group.
- On average, remarketing resulted in a 4.1% increase in campaign response rate across all customer types in the four cities tested. Both customer revenue and ROI increased by more than 14%, and average dollar spent per response rose by 10%.
